On 31st Jan 2018, at approximately 6.30pm (Local time), my vehicle (SLA3432U) met into an accident. I was driving along the 2nd lane at Jalan Eunus, and I needed to filter right to the 1st lane to make a right turn at the junction ahead.

On the 2nd lane, I put on my indicator lights and started to filter right to the 1st lane.

I edged out a little bit by bit, waiting to find an opportunity. I saw a window, and I made the filter. Almost 100% of my car is in the lane, and I was only straightening the car wheel to make the car straight.

However, the white car behind me (SJU3390A) didn't brake and hit onto my car. There was heavy traffic on the road and the floor was wet as it just rained there and every car was going slow. Yet the driver was driving so fast. He failed to keep a safe distance, failed to keep a lookout and was also speeding in such heavy traffic and wet conditions.

In his desperate attempt to avoid hitting my car rear (Otherwise he will have to absorb the full cost), he went up the curb and tried to overtake me on the right even though there was no lane.

There are skid marks on the soil at the curb. He went up the curb and crashed at an angle at my drivers seat, causing my car to swerve left and hit another car.

It is so dangerous because it could have cause an even bigger accident if his car strikes the curb and flips. He reported that both his front tires were punctured due to the impact onto the curb and his car had to be towed away.

After contacting my car, he did not stop immediately. But he changed the accident scene by going on to drive his car forward before coming to a stop. Now, there is an illusion that the accident was caused by me hitting him, instead of him speeding from the back and knocking into me.

Also, the car ahead of me at the point of filtering is SGL1771E. Interestingly, when my car swerved left, I didn't contact this car at all. Instead, I ended up hitting the car in front of SGL1771E which is SKC835L. This clearly shows that my car was well in the lane, otherwise, the impact from swerving left would cause me to hit the 1st car directly ahead instead of the 2nd car.

Later, I found out that the driver of (SJU3390A) is actually a car workshop mechanic. He even passed me his name card and told me I could contact him if I need help with repairing the car.

Within minutes later, a group of his friends drove and stopped in front of us and started giving their judgment of the situation. When I asked the driver of (SJU3390A) who they are, He said that they work at the same estate of car workshop as him and they are his neighbours. He claims that they are here to help.

He didn't plainly hit my rear and stop the car ASAP but instead tried to drive through the curb to "appear" in front shows that the driver chose the more reckless option to go up the curb just to overtake me to avoid a losing evidence scene.
