Dear Bevan,

(I am facing some problem with Yahoo mail for the attachments, therefore I am using my company email to send them to you.)

Noted below and please assist on this claim.

As there was no injury for this incident i.e. third party car was stationary and nobody was in the car, no police report was made.

Regarding the scenario, you have used the term 'collided' but it was actually a very mild scratch (to the front right bumper/ lower lip of SJJ 2770B) and this happened in the car park lots where my vehicle was parked to the right side of SJJ2770B and I was making a left turn during my exit which was made difficult as there was loading/ unloading activities at the premises. Basically, my rear left wheel has made contact with SJJ 2770 B and causing minor scratches on the vehicle.

As I have already reported this to AXA reporting centre (Progressive Automative Pte Ltd), I believe information such as driving license was provided. If not, please let me know.

Therefore, I am providing the photos I have taken on the time of incident which shown those scratch damages as well as the scene (how the car was parked etc.). Photo 2 shows the areas where the scratches were made (note: I have noticed there were already old scratches and rusty paint marks area the bumper areas).

Unfortunately, the video footage was unable to capture this event.

Thanks and please contact me in case you need more inputs.

P/s: Due to photos sizes, I will send them in few emails

Simon
