The policy conditions to mitigate my loss and render full co-operation to AXA Insurance Pte Ltd has been explained to me and I understood them.

I have a valid class 3 driving licence with about 28 years and 7 months of relevant driving experience. I have no other accident in the past 3 years. The m/car was fitted with the in-car camera however it was not working.

My office is located in Johor, Malaysia and I enter Malaysia from Monday - Friday. Its a day trip and I will returned home daily.

On 3/4/2018 at about 0700hrs, I entered Johor to go to work as usual. At about 1800hrs, I left my office and was on my way back to Singapore. I was alone at that time.

Claim No. : SGM003F

I am entering Singapore via ~~the~~ of Tuas Checkpoint.

I was travelling along Lebuhraya Link Dua. Somewhere near to 112km, I was on the left lane of a 3 lane road. Travelling at about 100kph. Traffic was smooth flowing. It was raining at that time and the road surface was wet.

There was a car ahead of my vehicle, it was about 3 to 5 car length away. Suddenly I noticed the said vehicle brake light and it slowed down. I applied my brakes however my car skidded. It then hit into the left side railings and spin ~~to the right side~~. My car ~~spun~~ a few rounds. Everything happened too fast. The next moment my car ended on the right lane.

During the spin, I felt a few impacts.

After the accident, I noticed that the left side railing was damaged.

There was a nearby Towar who came to assist me. Shortly after the police and Ambulance arrived. I suffered minor laceration at the top of my head and went to seek my own medical treatment in Singapore.

Claim No. : 28M00D3F

I then went to the Malaysia Police Station to file the police report. I also paid RM$300^{fine} to the police.

I then returned to Singapore via Public Transport.

My car was towed back about 2 days later.

That same night on 3/4/2018, I went to KTRH to seek medical treatment and I was given 3 days MC.

On the last day of MC, I felt pain at my back and neck, thus I went to another GP. I was given another 5 days of MC.

Dear Peter, please be informed that the IA of SJG 852C uploaded. Due to the extent of damage sustained by the insured vehicle, our surveyor was unable to comment on whether there is any mechanical issue to the insured vehicle. The steering system and braking system were found to be jammed due to the impact. The remaining tread depth of the 4 tyres were approximately 5mm to 8mm and this is within the requirement of the Road Traffic Act. The damages to the insured vehicle was a result of insured vehicle hitting the metal guardrail. The multiple areas of damage was likely due to the insured vehicle spinning and colliding into the metal guardrail a few times. Hope the above clarifies.

Brief details.

On 03/04/2018 at about 1830hrs, I was travelling back to Singapore from Malaysia (mentioned location) using second link and was driving on the left lane (3 lanes road) with travelling speed at about 100km/h. There was another Singapore vehicle in front of me as I was far behind around 3 to 5 cars length.

Thereat, I noticed the vehicle brake light as it slowed down as such I applied brake to slow down as well. However, the road was wet with puddle of water due to drizzling and my vehicle (SJG852C) suddenly skidded and hit onto the left side road railing causing the vehicle to spin many rounds and ended up on

There was a nearby Tower who happened to be around the area came over to render assistance to me. Due to the accident, I suffered minor laceration at the top of my head and I had received treatment back in Singapore at KTPH and I was given 3 days MC.

I have yet to inform my Insurance about the matter as my vehicle is still in Malaysia waiting to be tow back to Singapore.
