Hi Veron, The driver has mentioned to our investigator that he could feel the frontal damage was slightly grazing against the road floor and he also noticed some liquid had leaked out from the lower portion of the vehicle. Please check what is this frontal damage and will the continued grazing cause further damage to other parts of the vehicle? Does the liquid leakage shows that it is not advisable to drive? And how far is the accident location to the Maserati workshop? Will the distance justify not safe for the vehicle to continue driving? Please let us have your comments on urgent basis. Thank you.

Dear Ms Kitty,

Pursuant to your query; "please advise with the damages sustained, is it still advisable to drive the vehicle after the accident and are there aggravated damages caused by further driving".

There were no engine warning lights or overheating lights displayed on the speedometer of the Insured Vehicle when Mr Tan switched on the engine post- accident. He also did not encounter any issues while driving the Insured Vehicle to Tridente.

The Insured Vehicle was hit at the front left portion and the impact was relatively at low speed. The impact did not greatly affect the mechanical parts of the Insured Vehicle such as the steering or internal parts such the cooling system. The impact was also not significant enough to cause damage to the engine. Furthermore, the repair estimate provided by Tridente did not quote any engine components. Most of the damaged parts were aesthetic, such as the front bumper, grille, bonnet etc.

I hope I have answered your queries.

Thank you.
