Dear Chris,

Our principal have reviewed the matter and we regret to inform you that we are unable to look into your client's claim.

Our opinion remained the same that our insured driver's door was already opened when your client failed to take evasive action to avoid collision, instead, your client continued to drive and did not keep a proper lookout to our insured's stationary vehicle. Your client likewise, did not maintain a margin of safety when passing, hitting the already opened door of our insured. Furthermore, your client acknowledged his liability.

Dear Alfred and Irene,

We would like to update you that we have spoken to insured.

Insured informed us that he did not pursue third-party claim against the claimant and paid his repair from his own pocket.

Insured also confirmed that the claimant acknowledge his fault through sms in which he included screenshots in his statement.

We have given our opinion to the repairer in which we mentioned that according to our insured driver, his door was already opened when their client failed to take evasive action to avoid collision, instead, their client continued to drive and did not keep a proper lookout for our insured's stationary vehicle. TP claimant likewise, did not maintain a margin of safety when passing, hitting the already opened door of our insured. Furthermore, TP claimant acknowledged his liability.

TP repairer responded that they are keen to accept a 50% offer.

In view of the accident statement and acknowledgment of TP claimant on his liability, we are of the opinion that TP claimant is more to be blamed for this incident.

Kindly let us have your view and or opinion please.

Thank you.
