Subject: Accident 2 Oct 18

Location of accident: At the car park behind Blk 102, Hougang Ave, Singapore

Condition: Clear sky and good visibility, 8.45 am, 2 October 2018.

I was in my car park lot eating some breakfast. My car engine was on and running. My parked lot was around Number 63 or 64. My right and left side were taken up by parked cars. Refer to Photo A.

The view to exit my car park lot was as per the Photo B. My view to the right was obscured by the car parked to my right.

After the event, I took a photo of the view of the parked motor cycle. Refer to Photo C. There was clearly ample exit space to safely get out from her bike lots if she drives properly.

After I finished my breakfast, I eased out of my lot slowly after checking that the path was clear.

Almost instantly I had to step on my brake as I moved slightly out of my lot. In a split second I saw the bike hit my car as the bike also fell. I was only about three feet out of my lot at the impact point.

I stood out to ask if she is alright, she said that she is fine and visibly not injured.

Damages to my car and her bike were minor surface scratches. My car's front bumper towards the right is scratched.

After the event I realised that she had not taken proper precaution to exit her lot. There was clearly ample space to avoid all parked cars. Instead she speeded out so close to the parked car that I had no chance to avoid her. If she is not reckless, the accident could have been avoided. She is the main cause of the collusion.
