Hi Vic,

Based on this video, it may not be conclusive to prove there is a collision. Referring your view, I am of the view that it is possible.

Are we able to obtain original footage of the video? It may observe some jerks to justify the impact.

Also, you can explain to insured with the likely cause of accident to manage insured.

Please keep us posted on this.

Regards,

Dear Ming Yao,

We refer to the above matter and to our email in merimen dated 12/07/2019.

Please be informed that Insured reported and insisted that there was no collision between both vehicles.

As such, TP repairer had furnish us a copy of their client's video footage (uploaded in merimen).

Based on the footage, TP vehicle drove passed the Insured vehicle when it also moved out towards the left.

Furthermore, our surveyor upon inspection of the TP vehicle observed damages to the RH sillgarnish step chrome of the TP vehicle. Likely, the Insured's tyre may have likely brushed the step chrome of the TP vehicle.

Kindly let us have your view / opinion / instructions for this matter.

Thank you.
