Brief Details.

On 03/05/2019 at about 2100hrs, I parked my vehicle bearing registration plate SLL6686B inside the carpark at Blk 804 Hougang Central next to Hougang Avenue 10. I then left my vehicle.

On the same day at about 2150hrs, I returned to my vehicle and switched on the engine. I noticed that the in-car camera's function for detecting impact was activated. I then viewed the in-car camera footage and noticed that at about 2136hrs, a car bearing SMD359R had reverse into the front of my car while attempting a parallel parking. After the car collided with my car, the driver switched on hazard light and drove off into direction of another car park located at Blk 805 Hougang Central.

I would like to mentioned I had one in-car camera installed at the back and front of my vehicle. There was no note left behind on my car. I am unable to recall the car park lot number however I remembered my vehicle was parked next to a police camera and a hardware shop to the left side of the driver seat as well. I also remember that I had parked my car at the far end corner of the carpark. I had saved the footage of the moment of impact on my computer.

The front of my vehicle was dented as a result of the impact.
