Dear Khanchna

Thank you for your email.

I am sending you some photos I've taken at the accident scene so that you have an idea of the extent of damage of the truck. I understand that liability is not in my favour, but I just want you to have some proof that the damage to the truck was not serious at all, and I hope they are not making an excessive claim.

You can see from the pictures that the truck was relatively undamaged, no dents etc. My car is much lower than the truck and bumped into the area where the number plate is. I only noticed the number plate was dislodged but I forgot to take a picture. My car suffered more serious damages as some sharp protruding metal part from the truck pierced my car front grills.

Unfortunately, I failed to drive my car away from the truck a bit to take a picture of its actual damage and number plate. I do not get into accidents often and did not know I should have done that. I only took a picture of the driver and then called his boss. His boss provided me with the driving licence and truck plate later after the accident.

I also want to highlight the driver was alone, and a provisional plate driver. Are they allowed to drive on their own in their first year?

Anyway, do let me know if you need any more information from me, thank you.

Best regards
Geraldine Tan
