Brief Details.

On the above mentioned date, time and location I was making my way to Little India with my wife to get some groceries. I was driving along Selegie Road going towards Serangoon Road and I came to a stop right before the junction of Bukit Timah Road and Selegie Road. As I was at the stop line, my vehicle was the first at the stop line. I was waiting for the traffic to turn green in my favour. As I waited, the traffic light was still not in my favour, however I do not know why but I decided to inch my car slightly forward and that was where my car was in a position where it had passed the stop line.

Unfortunately, due to this action, a car that was coming in the direction from Bukit Timah Road going towards Sungei Road, was driving quite fast and as my car's position was slightly in the way, the front side of my car had grazed to the right of the moving vehicle. The collision resulted in the said car to turn 180 degrees and mounted on a curb on the right of the main road and collided onto a railing. I was in shock however I gained my composure and later moved my car to the side first to not block any traffic before attending to the driver.

When I approached the driver I saw that the car was in a bad state and unable to move, the driver however was fine and did not require any immediate medical attention. I did not called for the Police but momentarily, the Police later arrived. The police later talked to us and inform that both drivers were required to lodge a report on the matter. They also took the SD card of my in-car camera and I believe they also did for the other vehicle. My car sustained fair damages on the front side mainly to the bumper, headlights and bumper suffering some dents and scratches. Similarly I also noticed that there were some fluid leaking from the bottom of my vehicle as such I did not operate it further and it was subsequently towed. The other vehicle sustained more damages on the right side and left after the collision with my car as well as the railings. The railings along Sungei Road were also damaged in the process.
