Dear Jasper,

With regard to the above-mentioned accident, I would like to say,
Firstly, it was not my fault. My hazard lights and reverse lights were on at that time and I was trying to reverse my car. The SMS 1258M driver should have waited and give way before he proceed but instead he sped up and cross without making sure whether his car can make it through without hitting my car leftside when I turned into empty lot.

Car park was a single lane one with both sides of car parking lots which meant space is limited. And the empty car lot that I turned into is facing the exit and entrance gantry point. How can he tried to overtake me, which is what he said when we confronted.

He said he is overtaking me. Does he knows one of the driving rules? Always overtake on the rightside not the leftside.

Before the accident, I was in the front line, waiting for two cars to park into lots, which causes a jam of cars behind me. Moving forward, while I was trying to park, SMS1258M disregarded my hazards and reverse lights and not giving way, recklessly and impatiently make an attempt to bypass me but he failed.

Personal injuries? Why so severe? What date was it when he consult a doctor?

It is just a minor accident in a carpark not in a highway with severe damages. Besides my reversing speed cannot exceed his I am sure. On that day, he said he cannot open his car rightside door(his door jammed) to get into his driver seat, he will climb in from the leftside seat. Does this sound like a person who is injured and in pain?

In fact I should be the one who is traumatised and most affected as I am an elderly in my sixties. If there is any injury, it is due to his fault for being impatient, reckless and not giving way. My car would not be damaged and I would not be stressed.

I hope and trust that these informations could be of help to you. By the way, I still have my SD card on this incident. If you want it, I can hand it to you for viewing because I am not tech savvy. Please do not hesitate to call me, whatsapps or email me if you have any further queries.

Thank you for your kind assistance in this matter.

Yours sincerely,
