I was sitting in my parked car, when I noticed from the rear view mirror, the driver of a Toyota Harrier of vehicle number SMP 8228 U, having trouble in her reverse parking.

I believe she was in a hurry to park her car, being an sales agent myself, I was sitting thinking she was rushing for her 9pm appointment at the nearby sales gallery.

There was a point where I was ready to hit my car horn but just as I was about to, she had drove forward a little. The next second I knew, as I looked up from my phone, I felt my car being pushed forward, that was when I realised that the driver of the above mentioned car behind me had hit my parked car.

I came out, just as her front seat passenger also alighted and that was when I informed them that they had hit my car from the rear. They took it very lightly, the front seat passenger just walked away and left the scene, and this was what she said, she was talking to her front seat passenger that she didnt noticed the beeping sound made by her car while reversing.

She wanted to move her car forward but I stopped her. I told I would want to take some pictures before she moved her car forward. She was seen to be in a hurry, I requested for identification card to exchange particulars, she was not willing as she is protected under PDPA, she can refuse to do so. Instead she handed me her agent's business card and asked me for mine and she left even when I requested her to stay to assess the damaged (if any) carefully as the car park was not brightly lit.

I waited for a while, before I left since the car park, I felt that she was not going to return to her car anytime soon. I left approximately around 2130 hrs. I felt I will be able to assess the damaged and take better pictures in the morning.
