Dear Han Yang

The scene photos showed the fire to be relatively big, almost engulfing the entire front cabin of the insured vehicle. The frame (chassis) of the insured vehicle would have been exposed to high heat intensity during the fire. This can possibly lead to weakening of the material strength of the frame (chassis), which will affect the overall structural integrity of the frame (chassis). Insured vehicle is unsafe to repair.

You may want to consider cash in lieu settlement and terminate policy thereafter if your insured is under a non-fleet policy.

Best Regards,

Bryan Ang

Dear Ivy

Cause of fire is likely due to electrical nature that originated from the interior compartment of the insured vehicle. Due to the extent of fire damage within the interior compartment, we were unable to identify if there are any additionally fitted electronic or electrical components that may have contributed to the fire.

We did not apply for any SCDF fire report as it was not requested at the time of survey assignment.

Dear Sir/ Madam,

We are here to assist our client's vehicle no.: XD2434M to submit as a OD Claim.

As this vehicle was badly burnt damaged, we are unable to put up an assessment.

We request to put as Total Loss case. But currently our client will want to repair back the vehicle.

Can you kindly offer us an amount for the repair cost?

Thank you
