Hi Billy,

Thank you for your prompt response.

1. Vehicle speed off after collision

The OI actually speed off and our insured have to chase after him to stop his truck [See photo attached S4 Green Road Direction sign is 300 meters from collision site].

Our insured have reported your OI speeding off after the collision.

2. Damages cause by Collision on both vehicle

Your OI claimed our insured change lane and side swept his vehicle.

Assuming the side swept is caused by our insured, the damage on our insured vehicle should rightfully be front RH bumper or fender and not on the door mirror which is located higher on driver's door [Near center of BMW coupe – see photo attached DSC02240]

3. Scratch mark on your OI vehicle occurred at extreme rear edge of LH side body panel

The scratch mark on your OI truck at the extreme back end of LH side body panel, is an indication of rear truck body collided onto our insured driver's door mirror while trying to overtake from right lane and in process of swerving towards LH during final stage of overtaking .

[See PP Slide on scratch mark at rear end of LH side panel of your insured]

4. Your OI speed off after collision

Attached our insured GIA report of the incident. [See attachment STOW224U0002]

Kindly review all evidence and looking forward to your response.

Thank you

Best regards
Muhammad Zuhri

Hi Zuhri,

Noted on your point in regards to how the accident had happened, looking at the damage, we are not able firmly conclude that it was OI encroaching into your client lane. Furthermore, had spoken to OID, he had stop on the road side upon occurrence of the accident. Therefore, we are of the view that photo and assumption cannot be justified. Thanks

Dear Billy,

No additional evidence on this cased.

Marking photo attached for your reference.

Based on the photo, affected portion for your insured is LH rear side and for our insurance client is RH on side mirror only(no damage to other body part front or rear).

By logically the damage affected portion when change lane is front or behind, not portion in the middle only.

YI also try to refuse the collision until OIC chased around 300 meters to make the vehicle stop subsequently change the particular and taken damage photo,

Possibility statement's OIC it's match and kindly reconsider the claim.
